Gift of Edward Hilliard

THE Master and Fellows desire to present a record of all the living members of the College. They think that men of all generations will be interested to know what has become of contemporaries, with some of whom they may have lost touch, while others again have served and are serving in distinguished posts all over the world. They have to thank the Trustees of the Balliol College (1904) Endowment Fund, who have contributed largely to the expenses of the undertaking; likewise those who have so freely given information; and especially the Senior Bursar, who has carried out the task of compilation at the cost of much trouble.

BALLIOL COLLEGE, OXFORD,
May 1914.

PREFACE

THERE is not much necessity for an introduction in a book of this kind, but the following facts may be interesting to members of the College. The Register represents a 'Who's Who' of Balliol men now living, containing details more particularly about their careers at College and in the University. The alphabetical arrangement was chosen as the most convenient for reference.

At p. 381 will be found the Roll of Balliol College—a chronological list of names taken from the admission book.

Since the receipt of the returns I regret to say that the College has lost some of its old members. Their names have been retained and a note has been added recording the date of death when known.

There are 2,412 names in the Register, and it will be found that the professions of our old members may be classified approximately as follows: Barristers, 388; Clergymen, 254; Indian Civil Servants, 249; Readers, Lecturers, Schoolmasters, Tutors, 197; Fellows of Oxford Colleges, 175; Home Civil Servants, 129; Professors, 101; Solicitors, 67; Members of Parliament, 56; Army, 51; Diplomacy, 51; Medical, 46; Colonial Civil Servants, 42; Journalists, 33; Ministers of State, 22; Bankers, 19; Land Agents, 10; Heads of Oxford Colleges, 9.

The above figures have not been checked in minute detail, and they include members who have retired from their respective posts or professions.

PREFACE

In a compilation like the Register there must be mistakes. I have read all the manuscript and revised the proofs, and for any inaccuracies I accept full responsibility. Some omissions have been made at the request of members when sending in their returns; for other omissions and any mistakes the excuse must be the magnitude and difficulty of my task. Any corrections or additions for insertion in a future edition will be welcomed by the editor.

Thanks are due to my wife, who has helped me in all the stages of this work; to my shorthand writer, Mr. G. B. Whitaker, to whom I owe much for his untiring zeal and especially for his accuracy; and to Mr. Horace Hart, the Controller of the Press, who has ever been ready with valuable suggestions.

Especially are thanks due to those who have made their returns with such promptitude and care. They are the real authors of this book; and its interest for present and future generations will be found in the distinguished careers of Balliol men set forth in the following pages.

EDWARD HILLIARD.
